

IDENTIFY VICTIM OF CAR ACCIDENT

Daughter Recognizes Her
Father Nelson Swain
Dead at Morgue.

DIED AT R. R. CROSSING

Died Early Yesterday Morning—Worked for Frisco—
Lived in This City.

Nelson Swain, 53 years old, killed in "Dead Man's Crossing," the intersection of First street and the railroad valley tracks, was identified at the Mitchell-Fleming morgue late yesterday afternoon by his daughter, Mrs. Hattie Shaw Allen, 31, South Kenosha, with whom he lived. About 50 people had called at the morgue previous to the daughter's appearance, but no one knew the man. The letters "N." appeared on his right arm verified identification.

Swain was employed by the Frisco, and was probably going home from work, at the time that he met his death. High embankments are on both sides of the street at the intersection, and Swain, running from the south side of the street, was driven into the path of the car before he was seen. W. W. Everett, the driver said. The car, in trying to pass, ran into the south bank, where it was hit by the side of the left front fender. Everett said that he was sounding his horn as he approached the crossing, but that Swain evidently did not hear it. He died early yesterday morning at the Tulsa hospital.

FAVORS KNOX PEACE

James B. Mabon, Miami Candidate for Congress Touring District
Meeting G. O. P. Voters.

James B. Mabon of Miami, candidate for the republican nomination for congress from this, the first congressional district, was in Tulsa yesterday. Mr. Mabon filed his nomination papers some days ago, and is now making a preliminary tour of the district, getting acquainted with republican voters. Later he expects to make a thorough canvass so that all the electors may get a first-hand knowledge of his views upon national questions and matters of peculiar interest to this district.

In response to a question put to him yesterday as to his position on the Knox peace resolution now pending before the senate, he stated in unequivocal language: "In view of the defeat of the treaty with the Lodge reservations, I am in favor of the adoption of the Knox resolution so that this country may have peace. I believe it is the same and sensible solution of the situation this country now finds itself confronting."

Mr. Mabon says that his candidacy is being well received throughout the district.

AD MEN PLAN BUREAU

W. P. Green Tells Meeting Benefits for Better Business and More Truthful Advertising.

W. P. Green, organization secretary of the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising clubs of the World, was the principal speaker at a special meeting of the Tulsa Ad club at the Hotel Tulsa yesterday evening. Green is here for the purpose of organizing a better business bureau. This bureau operates to discourage fraudulent advertising, and takes to task any merchant who uses misleading advertising, Green said.

"About 10 per cent of the advertising is misleading, and this 10 per cent undermines all the rest of the advertising and harms not only the merchant who uses it, but all merchants. We are entering upon a new era of honesty in business, and the better business bureau tends to hurry up this era. Tulsa has suffered immeasurably from the fake oil companies operating in different parts of the state. A better business bureau would prevent such tactics," Mr. Green declared.

Before the club adjourned it was agreed to organize such a bureau in Tulsa, with the co-operation of Mr. Green. "Such a move will mean cleaner and better advertising and a feeling of good will on the part of the public towards the merchant," Mr. Green said.

SUGAR PROFITS ARE SET

Margin of 1 Cent Profit for Wholesale—2 Cents for Retailers.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Telegrams were sent by the department of justice today to all United States attorneys, reiterating the department's policy of holding the margin of profit of sugar sales to 1 cent for wholesalers and 2 cents for retailers. The margin of profit was fixed by the sugar equalization board more than a year ago, but Assistant Attorney General Garvin said that misunderstandings had arisen among fair price committees as to its application at the present time. To clear the tangle, district attorneys were instructed to rigidly enforce the ruling with respect to the margin of profit and to prosecute firms and individuals taking more than that amount per pound.

LAUDS CONSTITUTION

Judge Atwood, Lecturer at Luncheon
Lament's Nation's Departure
From Spirit of Document

Judge Harry Atwood of Chicago, author of "Back to the Republic," and noted lecturer on constitutional subjects, was the principal speaker at a special meeting of the City club held in the private dining room of Hotel Tulsa Wednesday which was joined in by the Rotary and Advertising clubs.

Judge Atwood spoke for an hour on the subject of constitutional government, pointing out the great distance American government has drifted from its ancient moorings and urging a return to real representative government as opposed to democracy as being the certain cure for the economic and industrial unrest that is widely prevalent.

The speaker was urged to come to Tulsa by members of the Employer's association who heard him deliver his address before that body in Oklahoma City the day previous. His most striking utterances and startling assertions were loudly applauded.
